Jimmy's Lecture.

[Press Leaflet.]

"Jimmy, throw that jug into the pig-pen. Smash it first, and be sure you don't taste a drop of the vile stuff," said an anxious looking woman as she handed her little son the brown jug which she had just found hidden in the shed.

"Father won't like it," began the boy, eyeing the ugly thing with a look of fear and hate; for it made mother miserable, and father a brute.

"I said I'd make way with it the next time I found it, and I will! It is full, and I don't feel as if I could live through another dreadful time like the last. If we put it out of sight, maybe father will keep sober for another month. Go quick, before he comes home." And the poor woman pushed the boy to the door as if she could not wait a minute till the curse of her life was destroyed. Glad to comfort her, and have the fun of smashing anything, Jimmy ran off, and, giving the jug a good bang on the post, let the whiskey run where it would, as he flung the pieces into the pig-pen, and went back to his work. He was only eleven; but he struggled manfully with the old saw, and the tough apple-tree boughs he had collected for fuel. It was father's work; but he neglected it, and Jimmy wouldn't see mother suffer from cold, so he trimmed the trees, and did his best to keep the fire going. He had to stop often to rest; and in these pauses he talked to himself, having no other company.

Not long after the destruction of the jug, he heard a great commotion in the pen, and, looking in saw the two pigs capering about in a curious way. They ran up and down, squealed, skipped, and bumped up against one another as if they didn't see straight, and had no control of their legs.

Jimmy was much amused for a few minutes; but when one staggered to the trough, and began to lap something there, and the other tumbled down, and could not get up, he understood the cause of these antics.

"Oh dear! I let the whiskey run

CHAPTER XXV OF LICENSES.

An ACT authorizing County Courts to grant Licenses.

SECTION 1.—Be it enacted by the Governor and Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah: That on and after the first day of April, eighteen hundred and eighty-four, no person shall be permitted to carry on the business of merchants, retailers, peddlers, auctioneers, brokers, pawnbrokers, money changers, travelers, traveling showmen, theatrical performances, circus, and menageries, without first obtaining a license therefor from the county courts in their respective counties, as hereinafter provided.

SEC. 2.—The county court in their respective counties are hereby authorized to provide for the granting of licences, as contemplated in the first section of this act. They shall also provide a suitable book of printed forms with stubs, said stubs shall contain a duplicate copy of all licenses issued, and they shall be numbered consecutively; said county courts shall fix the price of all licenses granted by them, which price shall be uniform for all licenses of the same class and shall not exceed for any one license on any business named in this act the sum of one hundred dollars for any one year; Provided, That the price fixed for a quarter yearly license may be made the price for any time less than three months; and said county courts shall require payment for all licenses invariably in advance. Upon the applicant paying the required amount to the county clerk, said clerk shall issue the required license for any term not exceeding one year.

SEC. 3.—No such license shall be transferable, unless such transfer shall be sanctioned by the county court or probate judge.

SEC. 4.—If any person shall violate the provisions of any of the preceding sections of this act, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 5.—Nothing in this act shall be construed to apply to peddlers of perishable fruits and vegetables, nor to any person carrying on business in an incorporated city.

Approved March 13, 1884.

ORDER
